- Changes to our cookie uses; and
- How to contact us.

To find out more about our approach to privacy please read our Privacy Policy. While we may automatically use some cookies that are strictly necessary to provide the services you request or enable communications, we request your consent for all of our other cookie uses.

1. Cookies and online tracking technologies

- Web Browser Cookies

A web browser cookie is a small text file that is sent by a website to your computer or mobile device where it is stored by your web browser. Web browser cookies may store information such as your IP address or other identifier, your browser type, and information about the content you view and interact with on digital services. By storing such information, web browser cookies can remember your preferences and settings for online services and analyze how you use online services.

- Session cookies / Persistent cookies

Different cookies persist for different periods of time on your devices. We may use both session cookies and persistent cookies. Session cookies expire when you close your browser. Persistent cookies remain after you close your browser and may be used by your browser on subsequent visits to the website or when you use one of our services (for example, to remember your preferences).

- First-party / Third-party cookies

The cookies we use may be categorized as either first-party cookies or third-party cookies. First-party cookies are cookies set by us on our Website for our own purposes. Third-party cookies are cookies set by or accessible to other companies when you visit our Website. For example, where our Website includes social media features, embedded content, or other third-party tools, those third parties may place cookies on your device or otherwise collect information through similar technologies in connection with those features. We encourage you to review the privacy and cookie policies of the relevant third parties for more information about their practices.

- Tracking Technologies: Web Beacons/Gifs, Pixels, Page Tags, Script

Emails and mobile apps may contain small transparent image files or lines of code to record how you interact with them. This information is used to help website and app publishers better analyze and improve their services.

2. How we use cookies and tracking technologies

We may use the following types of cookies:

- Strictly necessary cookies. Strictly necessary cookies are essential in order to provide you with the services you request on our Website and in order that we can comply with legal obligations such as our security obligations under data protection law. We do not need to ask for your consent in order to use these cookies as without them we would not be able to provide the services requested by you. These are always active on the Website.
- Functionality cookies. These cookies enable helpful but non-essential website functions that improve your website experience. By recognizing you when you return to our website, they may, for example, allow us to personalize our content for you, greet you by name, or remember your preferences (for example, your choice of language or timezone). Functionality cookies are only used if you consent to it in the cookie settings.
- Analytics cookies. These cookies allow us [and our third-party service providers] to recognize and count the number of visitors and to see how visitors move around our website when they are using it. This helps us improve how our website works by, for example, ensuring that users can easily find what they need on our website. Analytics cookies are only used if you consent to it in the cookie settings.
- Advertising cookies. These cookies are used to deliver advertisements that are more relevant to you and your interests, and to measure the effectiveness of advertising campaigns. They may be set by us or by our third-party advertising and social media partners. They may be used to track your browsing activity across websites and online services over time in order to build a profile of your interests and show you relevant advertisements on other websites or services. Advertising cookies are only used if you consent to them in the cookie settings.

Please see the cookie tables below for lists of the individual cookies that may be used on each of our websites, organized by website and cookie category, together with their specific purposes.
